

Abundance/Abundance Lost    ARPA10 Art Collective

Abundance/Abundance Lost is an exhibition of artworks made by the ARPA 10 Art Collective, a group that came together while they were artists-in-residence at the McColl Center in Charlotte, one of the region's most esteemed residency programs. ARPA (Spanish for Harp), a Spanish restaurant located a few blocks from the Center, was the site for many thoughtful discussions which created a lasting bond between these 10 regional artists. The group's working relationship became so fruitful that they continued to meet as friends and colleagues long after their residencies had ended, naming the collective after the site of their stimulating conversations.
